Homecoming King

Andy Black

Some nights you lie
Some nights you don't
But they all feel the same
Sometimes you wish you could turn to stone
And be perfect always
I, I can't feel like this no moreIn the crowd alone cause no one wants to know you
Do they?
Don't they?Right here but no one's watching
Here comes the invisible man
That no one turns to see
I'm just another dumb fool
Never going down in history
Yeah you're standing there with the homecoming king
Turn the silver spoon into a diamond ring
Can he make you disappear without anyone noticing
Yeah fuck the homecoming kingYou see your life is drawn out
Don't feel the world that you know
Caught in the tower singing
"Oh no that's not the life I chose"Most days you rise and start to fade
Cause no one loves you
Over the rise and look away
Life without virtue
I, I can't feel like this no more
You walk these halls and feel the same
Cause you can't find your placeRight here but no one's watchingHere comes the invisible man
That no one turns to see
I'm just another dumb fool
Never going down in history
Yeah you're standing there with the homecoming king
Turn the silver spoon into a diamond ring
Can he make you disappear without anyone noticing
Yeah fuck the homecoming kingAnd I stare the fan on the ceiling
All night, all night
All these memories won't stop running
My mind, my mindAnd the red stained in walls keeps crashing
My life, my life
And all the voices won't stop laughing
I can't find againHere comes the invisible man
That no one turns to see
I'm just another dumb fool
Never going down in history
Yeah you're standing there with the homecoming king

Turn the silver spoon into a diamond ring
Can he make you disappear without anyone noticing
Yeah fuck the homecoming king
You see your life is drawn out
Don't feel the world that you know
Caught in the tower singing
"Oh no that's not the life I chose"
You see your hands are tied now
Just like your eyes will stay closed
Come in the tower singing
"oh no that's not the life I chose"
