As the End of the World

Binocular

From the night sky she comes
I tell one lie and she runs
I follow her down to the lake
She takes me back to where I wasFeed the fire, fire the flame
The darkness sets in and the rain
As we crawl beneath the ledge
And forget why we cameAnd if we meet here again
I will suffer your pain
I won't let you escape
Your reflection in the rainAnd if we starve as the world
Spins in circles and burns
I will love you today
As the end of the world
But the darkness becomes beneath us
And the moon rays light the way
As the music becomes softer
There's a light in the house that saysFrom the night sky she comes
I tell one lie and she runs
I follow her down to the lake
She takes me back to where I wasFeed the fire, fire the flame
The darkness sets in and the rain
As we crawl beneath the ledge
And forget why we cameI will beg, I will kneel
I will borrow, I will steal
Just to have you again,
Just to have you right here
And if we starve as the world
Spins in circles and burns
I will love you today
As the end of the world
