

Hold That Thought

Ben Folds Five

She broke down and cried
At the strip mall acupuncturist
While the world went on outsideThe Chinese doctor took her arm,
Gazed at the floor and read her wrist
For the secrets in her life"Here's your medicine," she said
"If you do not smile at him, then someone else will."
You hold that thought
And I'll hold that thought tooAh ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh
Ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh, oohI was shown the thirty-six
Ways I'm not available
On a simple, easy chart
Later on that evening
On the beach in Santa Monica
It was a very risky startSuppose the stupid chart is right
In a year will you still feel the same way?
Ah, well, you hold that thought
And I'll hold that thought tooOoh, ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh
Ah, ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh
Ahh, ahhDid you ever see the film
Where a man is givin' spectacles
To make the world look upside-down?He falls about the place
But in time he somehow readjusts
And when they take the glasses off
The eyes he's always had see sky below him
And he falls again
Ah, but you hold that thought
And I'll hold that thought
You hold that thought
And I'll hold that thought
You hold that thought
And I'll hold that thoughtOoh, ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh, ooh
Ooooh

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>