

One Way Heartbeats

Michael McEachern

I'm tired of these one way heartbeats
They come just to leave me with nothing
Like a movie with a cliff-hanger endin'
And no sequel to answer my questions I'm on the edge of my seat
Just waiting, waiting patiently Oh, so
I'm gonna let you come to me
All of this searching hasn't been working
Here's to these one way heartbeats
Call me crazy, call me lazy, call me dumb
I'm gonna let you come
I'm tired of singing all these songs
About my eye catching yours
Just to watch you walk along
It's like hiding in a game of hide-n-seek
When the seeker never finds you
They just leave you wondering And on the edge of your seat
Just waiting, waiting anxiously Oh, so
I'm gonna let you come to me
All of this searching hasn't been working
Here's to these one way heartbeats
Call me crazy, call me lazy, call me dumb
I'm gonna let you
Walk right in the door
I'll leave the key in the fake rock
Underneath the big tree
Next to the mailbox
I'll make it easy on you baby
But hard enough to make you try
I'll see you inside Oh, so
I'm gonna let you come to me
All of this searching hasn't been working
Here's to these one way heartbeats
Call me crazy, call me lazy, call me dumb
For havin' faith that fate will work out on it's own
I'm gonna let you come
