Kendra Morris

i couldn't write you a symphony with all of these pieces and pieces and pictures of who you are and i couldn't write you a love poem with all these meanings and things, all these stories of who you are.
and i couldn't be your coach in all these words that i want- all these words that i want you to say well i beg - it hurts (beg, it hurts) anything- that's the word what you wanna be? what you want?
can't you see?
and i never eat, never sleep
headaches are killing me won't you be, won't you be, won't you be all that i need in my life?
well if i couldn't take you honey on another day, another night i'll just cry
and i believe that you want me even if you never- you never look my way.
and i'm on the floor, all alone, all alone, all alone praying for you to come back come back to me
i just might die
boy you say to me, say to me
let it go.
don't you know? .
you don't know.
this is how, this is why . .
oh no...
i want you right here. here.
i need you right here. here with me.
i couldn't sing your stories before you left me left me left me baby this stings. .
and i couldn't take these memories don't know where you talk, where you are. .
never mind, forget your name.
well i try sleep so hard try to live, fall apart. .
don't you remember?
can't you remember?
why. . why can't you be here?
i need you right here.

i want you right here, right here by my side cuz it don't matter what you did last night.
