

Broken Man

Corrosion of Conformity

Deep in the soul of a man who's seen it all - he stands alone with borrowed time dealing with two, nothing's new but they look at you with broken backs and bleeding minds well I don't know even though they tell me so you'll be the one who walks the line standing tall, they're so fragile but they always find you when you hide cause you're a broken man, in a broken land cause you're a broken man, in a broken land and don't they wish they were blessed like you the struggle inside your mind is a waste of time - your purest thoughts evaporate dark clouds reveal how you feel in your idle time - your own tail becomes the bait you don't know even though your blood flows destroy yourself, you're the one you hate standing tall, they're so fragile
but they always get you when you're late cause you're a broken man, in a broken land cause you're a broken man, in a broken land and don't they wish they were blessed like you standing tall they look so small with the world upon their shoulders but a broken man on broken land looks far beyond his brothers break for the sun you're the one, the chosen one, your time is up your time is due cracked like a whip from the hand of a broken man to find out that he's just like you but you've seen it all, in your mind you've seen it all, you've built it up and they made it fall because you're killing yourself and you're so fragile but they cannot crush you if you don't crawl now I'm a broken man, in a broken land
now I'm a broken man, in a broken land
now I'm a broken man, in a broken land
and don't they wish they were blessed like you
and don't they wish they were blessed like you
and don't they wish they were blessed like you
and don't they wish they were blessed like you
and don't they wish they were blessed like you

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>