

Tomorrow's Ending

Tickle Me Pink

Blinded lies I've compromised, the thousand things i know, forever it takes to my mistakes furthering myself to grow shadowed doubt cant live without my one track minded ways im trapt inside this guiltless pride i'm caged with them
this face
this face
what would you do with life revealed to you tomorrow's ending today
would you ask yourself
did i live in the light or did i fake in black array what would you have changed would you release the pain and forgive your world of sin now that you know what's here will you dry the tears
and let the end begin clock won't wait i'll kill the hate before it takes control instead of dwelling in the mist I'll find my role crimson eyes this insomniac tries to make shape from the formless though i know it's hard to find a reason to accept to acceptwhat would you do
with life revealed to you
tomorrow's ending today
would you ask yourself
did i live in the light
or did i fake in black array
what would you have changed
would you release the pain
and forgive your world of sin
now that you know what's here
will you dry the tears
and let the end beginjust let the end beginwhat would you do

with life revealed to you
tomorrow's ending today
would you ask yourself
did i live in the light
or did i fake in black arraywhat would you do
with life revealed to you
tomorrow's ending today
would you ask yourself
did i live in the light
or did i fake in black arraywhat would you do what would you dowhat would you have changed
would you release the pain
and forgive your world of sin
now that you know what's here
will you dry the tears
and let the end begin.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>