

There Will Always Be a You

Donna Summer

Like the stars that shine above in a warm and wind tossed love just like tears that fall forever Like the raven and the dove looking for a perfect love after rainy, stormy weather I am yours and you are mine till the stars fall from my eyes there will always be a you A ship sailing without end a lost, tired, worn down friend and old broken run down shoe I keep running back for more,
at least you thought I would be sure but I gave up, I broke it's true still there will always be a you Don't ask me how I tried so long and in my heart I know I will never go away
if you wanted me to stay well in a million years I wouldn't go Cause I love you so yes I do
I love you so
I could never leave you
I love you
don't go away
don't go away
there will always be a you
A ship sailing without end
a lost tired, worn down friend
and old broken run down shore
I keep running back for more
at least you thought I would be sure but I give up, I broke it's true still there will always be a you I am yours and you are mine till the stars fall from my eyes there will always be a you I will never go away
if you wanted me to stay
well in a million years
I wouldn't go cause I love you so
yes I do

I love you so
I could never leave you
I love you
I love you
don't go away
can't go away there will always be a you At night I cry can't find a reason
I'm left alone
can't seem to understand at night I cry
can't find a reason
I'm left alone
can't seem to understand
there will always be a you
there will always be a you (Fade)

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>