

Groves

Benjamin Francis Leftwich

I know that you're ready to go
But stay a while
And fake a smile I know that you're ready to go
Cause there you lay and stare away
Out the window, the houses through the groves
And to the mountains down the road
I will follow in your footsteps
When I walk away the sadness in the snow Don't go
I need you to be waiting for me
Every time I'm home
Don't go
I'll be right beside you when you rest your broken bones
Don't go
I know that you're ready to go
The sky above, the soaring dove I don't think I'm ready to go
Here alone, you are the stone
That holds me in position
With your strong and steady wisdom
Don't you walk away I will be there in the morning
At the sunrise if you promise to be strong Don't go
I need you to be waiting for me
Every time I'm home
Don't go
I'll be right beside you when you rest your broken bones
How could I slow down tired
As the waters climb had
Your hand in mine
Oh oh oh oh oh oh
How can I know new life
As the waters rise
I'll just close my eyes
Oh oh oh oh oh oh Don't go
I need you to be waiting for me
Every time I'm home
Don't go
I'll be right beside you when you rest your broken bones Don't go
I need you to be waiting for me
Every time I'm home
Don't go
I'll be right beside you when you rest your broken bones
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>