

Smitten For the Mitten

Chiodos

Just me and you,
With the world in our hands,
With the world in our hands.
(So say what you want) I'm really not who you think I am,
I keep the words that make me sane,
So stop telling me I'm not who you thought I would be And I'm so much better now that I'm far from you,
This passion drowns our need for love
Don't you ask me any questions.
(Just go on and follow me)
Through the words and ocean,
Bottles through the sky and empty rooms.
(From the pit of my stomach)
Coming out through my throat,
The drink that will fill you,
The need to keep you coming back for more. And I'm so much better now that I'm far from you,
This passion drowns our need for love.
No, we can't stop even if we wanted to,
This passion drowns our need for love. And this is all still so new to me,
Our eyes have lost their color.
And now I'm trying, I'm trying to keep my balance.
But there is nothing, there's nothing to keep me steady.
And I'm more than safe alone.
And I'm so much better now that I'm far from you,
This passion drowns our need for love.
No, we can't stop even if we wanted to,
This passion drowns our need for love.
I'm so much better now that I'm far from you,
This passion drowns our need for love.
No, we can't stop even if we wanted to,
This passion drowns our need for love.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>