

Mock

The Story So Far

How can I just break it off to leave for good and never talk
I'm about to write it up for you to mock
And clear my mind for the thousandth time
I've been too involved to call it off Been away for so long all I've got are weak foundations, wishful thoughts
And all around a greater view
How do you think that that's okay?
To still like all the things I play?
To still try not to walk my way?
I taught you all those things to say
And it's nothing like it used to be
There's no more of what I used to see
But you help me with my honesty
While I'm yelling at your ghost Make things worse
I always seem to make things worse
Cause I can't seem to shake this curse
I can't seem to put you first
And I spend all my time
With you in my hindsight
Got so many questions that I'll ask when the times right
How can I just break it off and leave for good and never talk? x2 And when you finally see the scope
Feel the ghost grip of my choke
I won't know you'll love you less and it'll be effortless

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>