What a Song Should Do

Tim Hicks

If they don't make ya dance
If they don't make ya think
If they don't get you sober
It better make you drinkYeah it's what you drive to, cry to Make you feel alive to
When you got nothing left to lose
If they don't get you laughing
Or break your heart in two
That's what a song should doIt should make you go hell yeah, me too
Yeah, that's what a song should do
It should make you feel alright, all night
[?] and the truth, that's what a song should do
It's that old record your daddy used to play
It's that first dance on your wedding day
Yeah, it should shape you, change you
Break you down and break through Like you got nothing left to prove Worthy of words on your tattoo
That's what a song should doIt should make you go hell yeah, me too
Yeah, that's what a song should do
It should make you feel alright, all night
[?] and the truth, that's what a song should do
It should make you feel alright, all night
With four chords and the truthYeah it should be the soundtrack singing every moment of your life
The beat that'll keep you wide awake till the sunrise
Can't help but sing along to...
It should make you go hell yeah, oh me too
That's what a song should do
Oh yeah
(Whoa-whoa, whoa-oh)
That's what a song should do
That's what a song should do
(Whoa-whoa, whoa-oh)
It should mean something to youSo what keeps it going
What puts that flicker in your flame
And when your candle burns out
What song they gonna play
What song they gonna playIt should make you go hell yeah, me too
Yeah, that's what a song should do, whoa
It should make you feel alright, all night
With four chords and the truth, yeahIt should be the soundtrack singing every moment of your life

The beat that'll keep the party going till the sunrise
Can't help but sing along to...
It should make you go hell yeah, oh me too
That's what a song should do
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/