

The Saddest Song

Streetlight Manifesto

Well, it doesn't really matter if you lead or follow,
Everybody's laughing like there's no tomorrow and even if there was,
Would you still go following your friends?
I don't care where we went wrong, we're still singing those same sad tunes,
"It's my life, not your life, I'll end it when I want." And now I'm off to save the world once again,
But I don't know how I'll pull it off this time,
I think I'm going to drown.
Now he's off to save the world once again,
But he don't know how he'll pull it off this time,
I just know I'm going to drown. And it's the saddest song you'll ever hear,
The most pain you will ever feel.
But you grit your teeth because it don't get better than this, know this.
And you'll try to explain as the blood leave all your veins,
And you can't think of anything that you would change.
Stop!
"Look and you will see" is what I think she said to me
I'm not too sure because it could have easily been a million things
But I don't know what she said,
I still don't know what she said.
Years passed since I've seen her face, 14 years were just erased.
If my life was your life, would you ever take it back? And now I'm off to save the world once again,
But I don't know how I'll pull it off this time,
I think I'm going to drown.
Now he's off to save the world once again,
But he don't know how he'll pull it off this time,
I just know I'm going to drown. Yeah, you will try to explain as the blood leaves all your veins,
And you can't think of anything that you would change.
And now I'm off to save the world once again,
But I don't know how I'll pull it off this time,
I think I'm going to drown.
Now he's off to save the world once again,
But he don't know how he'll pull it off this time,
I just know I'm going to drown. And it's the saddest song you'll ever hear,
The most pain you will ever feel.
But you grit your teeth because it don't get better than this, know this.
And you'll try to explain as the blood leave all your veins,
And you can't think of anything that you would change.

